

Michael Carating
837 Stainton Drive
Mississauga, ON L5C1G2

November 6, 2009

Jordan B. Farkas
120 Caribou Road
Toronto, ON Canada
M5N 2B2

Testimonial For Prospective Clients

To Whom It May Concern,

When the need arose for me to obtain legal representation, I immediately dreaded the legal service search. To me, it meant meeting prospective law firms who are too busy to even contact, let alone discuss your case. It meant paying exorbitant amounts of money for sub-par attention. It meant one constant headache from beginning to end. I consider myself lucky that I was able to find Mr. Farkas at www.mrsmallclaimscourt.ca as my experience with him has absolutely blown away all of my preconceived notions of how I thought going through the Small Claims process would be.

For any chance at success in the courtroom, clients must obtain a lawyer who is a subject matter expert. Mr. Farkas, along with his team of paralegals, is very well-versed in the procedures of the court and have a comprehensive understanding of the laws that govern the Small Claims process. In my recent experience, he swiftly reviewed every document I had pertaining to the case and was able to quickly assess every possible course of action along with each respective chance of success. It was obvious I was dealing with someone with considerable Small Claims experience. At no time did I have anything but absolute confidence in his legal expertise and that I was being represented by the right person.

Along with a solid knowledge base, clients require a lawyer who puts his clients interests first. In my case, I was very mindful in controlling costs but I never felt like he was only making certain decisions to increase his fees. His main focus was centred on pursuing actions that represented our best chances of winning, not the most expensive. His ethical conduct was nothing short of exemplary.

Lastly, clients require a lawyer who, above all, is there for them. When discussing my case, Mr. Farkas was very careful to listen to my concerns. He was very cognizant of my needs and always ensured that I was comfortable with any major decision before executing it. His availability was well above my expectations. It is evident that he works hard for his clients every day from his 6am emails to urgent phone calls on weekends and everything in between. You'd be hard-pressed to find anyone as willing to commit himself to his clients as Mr. Farkas.

With his help, we emerged victorious and I attribute the victory solely to him. I would recommend his services, in an instant, to anyone looking for a lawyer who is knowledgeable, available, capable, and ethical. If more things in life could go as smoothly as my Small Claims experience with Mr. Farkas, life would definitely have a lot less headaches. Thank you Jordan.

Sincerely,

MCarating

Michael Carating